WAYNE COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

One of the largest school districts in Eastern North Carolina, Wayne County Public Schools serves over 19,300 students from kindergarten through 12th grade. The district is firmly committed to education that breeds advancement, exemplified through the inclusion of STEM educational models in classrooms across the county and the opening of Wayne School of Engineering as a think tank for hands-on learning.

STEM Education

STEM Education is a modern approach to middle grades and prep school curriculum that focuses on the real-world application of Science, Technology, Engineering and Math disciplines. The program, which is underway in Wayne County’s Public School system, seeks to bridge the gap between the skills many prep students have when they complete high school and the skills needed to evoke innovation in our workforce and higher education systems. This is accomplished through direct communication, collaboration and partnerships among STEM educators in the classroom, local businesses, existing industry and secondary education institutions. Wayne County boasts STEM labs in all of its middle schools.
